

© 2018 Grant Thornton International Ltd. 'Grant Thornton' refers to the brand under which the Grant Thornton member firms provide assurance, tax and advisory services to their clients and/or refers to one or more member firms, as the context requires. Grant Thornton International Ltd (GTIL) and the member firms are not a worldwide partnership. GTIL and each member firm is a separate legal entity. Services are delivered by the member firms. GTIL does not provide services to clients. GTIL and its member firms are not agents of, and do not obligate, one another and are not liable for one another's acts or omissions. www.grantthornton.global

Stricter breach reporting

Your data protection officer has to notify the supervisory authority no later than 72 hours after a personal data breach under certain conditions. When the breach is likely to result in a high risk, the date subject must be notified immediately.

> Do you know how to report a data breach?

Are you measuring the effectiveness of existing data security and data protection processes?

Test, check and evaluate

The GDPR requires a process for regularly evaluating the effectiveness of technical and organisational measures for ensuring the security of processing.

Have you considered implementing a data protection management system (DPMS)?

9

Data protection management system

The GDPR not only asks you to assess and implement your data protection measures but also to continually improve them. A DPMS will help you to monitor and govern the GDPR measures through your organisation.

Fast track with Grant Thornton

Don't start from scratch, we can help guide you through with the our GDPR toolkit covering:

- Quick check
- Control assessment
- Data protection processes
- Record of processing activities
- Data protection impact assessment methodology
- Data protection blueprint